IT WAS STEAM AND NOT SMOKE

Workmen at Case's Planing Mill Thought the Building Was on Fire.

MUD VALVE BROKE IN TWO

Frank Owen and Charlie Miller were Slightly Burned About Arms and Head.

The residents of the southwest part of the city heard the whistle at the J. D. Case planing mill shriek louder yesterday evening, about five thirty, than they ever had before, and immediately they knew that some trouble was brewing. The residents of the entire city soon after heard a fire alarm from box thirty-seven, and it was one tremendous pour of people to West Third street.

The engineer at the mill had started home and soon after his departure other employees in the plant were amazed at seeing what they thought was smoke, but which later proved to be steam pouring from the engine room. Excitement prevailed and without investigation the fire alarm was sent in.

Several of the men tried to make entry into the engine room, thinking that it was smoke that they were confronting rather than steam. As a result Frank Owens and Charlie Miller are suffering today from steam burns on the arms and slightly about the face. Medical aid was summoned to dress the injuries and investigation proved them not serious, unless complications should gratify.

The reason of all the commotion was that a mud valve had pulled in two, which in reality is not such an unusual happening around places where steam boilers are in use. A fire at such a time as now, when the city water supply is low would be a very hard thing to contend with, especially one of any great consequence. The citizens of the city would be doing a public spirited act if they would do all in their power to keep from wasting the city water, which is very scarce at present and which would all be necessary to successfully cope with a large conflagration.

ORIGIN OF FIRE IS A MYSTERY

Blaze Destroyed Barn in Gowdy, Belonging to Orville Headlee About Eight O'clock Last Night.

HARNESS AND HAY IS BURNED

A barn belonging to Orville Headlee in Gowdy was completely destroyed by fire last night. The origin is a mystery. A quantity of hay and some harness went up with the flames, while all of the live stock was saved. Mr. Headlee keeps his automobile in the stable, but it so happened that he had not yet run the machine in for the night. Mr. and Mrs. Headlee had been milking in the barn about thirty minutes before the fire was discovered. When it was found about eight o'clock, the structure was almost razed to the ground. The loss was $700 and was partially covered by insurance.

New Jersey maintains its high standard of public schools at an average cost of about 20 cents per day per pupil.

MAY BE INCORPORATED

Sentiment in Milroy is Strong in That Direction.

The sentiment towards the incorporation of the town of Milroy is growing, according to the Milroy press and may be accomplished in the near future. The newspaper there is of the opinion that such a move would give the town prestige which it could not gain in any other manner and would also do away with many disagreeable features, which are now to be found there.

MAKE REPORT ON ASSEMBLY FINANCE

Auditing Committee, Appointed by Chautauqua Directors, Find a Neat Balance of $249.19.

TOTAL EXPENDED IS $2,348.33

The auditing committee, Anna L. Bohannon and E. B. Thomas, appointed by the board of directors of the chautauqua association to audit the accounts of the secretary, T. A. Craig, and the treasurer, Earl H. Payne, have found them correct. Their report shows that the total receipts for the season were $2,597.51, while the disbursements were $2,348.33, leaving a balance of $249.19. That sum will be held until next year and will serve as a fund to begin with. The committee in charge of the financial end of the work this year were handicapped in view of the fact that it was new. With a year's experience they see where they can save many small expenses.

LOWERS RECORD IN WONDERFUL MILE

Hedgewood Boy Defeats Two Great Pacers and Paces Around the Track in 2:01.

FIRST HALF IN ONE MINUTE

The marvelous performance of Hedgewood Boy, full brother to Lady Maude C, which team of horses was wintered here and shown here on numerous occasions at Galesburg, Ill., yesterday is the cause of much comment among local horsemen here today. He paced a mile in 2:01, defeating Minor Heir, 1:59 1/4 and George Cane, 2:03 1/4. The great Chitwood stallion paced within one-half a second of the world's race record, and lowered his own mark one and one-quarter seconds. Local followers of the turf are predicting that he will go faster than that before the season is finished. It was a wonderful mile, and especially so in view of the fact that a stiff wind was blowing against the pacers on the back stretch.

PLANS TO GO UP AGAIN TONIGHT

John Innis Made Graceful Balloon Ascension and Parachute Leap This Afternoon.

TAKES FIREWORKS TONIGHT

"Big Wednesday" Crowds, as Large as Usual, Enjoyed Free Shows and Band Concert.

Promptly at twenty minutes of four o'clock, John Innis, seated in the trapze attached to his parachute, cried "let go," and he started on his two hundred and thirty-fourth journey into the air. The strong wind carried him almost straight up in the air for a time and it seemed that he would become a member of the constellation. Gradually the big bag of gas began to move northward. The balloon went so high that the man looked like a midget.

He sailed and sailed on and the big crowd of people who gathered to see the ascension, wondered why he did not cut loose and make the parachute leap. Someone suggested that he probably was in trouble and that he could not break away. When an expression of alarm was heard through the crowd, and when it was thought that he would never return to make another ascension tonight, the parachute opened gracefully and the veteran balloonist began his downward flight. The gas emptied from the bag which came to the earth like a comet when it once started. The general expressions are that Mr. Innis made the best and most spectacular flight that was ever seen here. Everything worked in perfect order. He will make an ascension with fireworks tonight. The balloonist made a safe landing about one-quarter of a mile north of the northern city limits, in a woods on the east side of the road.

The "Big Wednesday" crowds were up to the standard today. All of the five cent amusement houses were free to everyone, as was arranged by the Retail Merchants' Association. Crowds thronged to the theaters to see the new bills which were provided especially for this afternoon. The streets were deserted while the ascension was being made.

The city band was the attraction all afternoon and they will give a concert on the court house square this evening. The band, which has come to be recognized to be one of extraordinary merit, pleased this afternoon, for which they received their money. But tonight they will play free of charge. Out of consideration for what the merchants of the city have done for them, the musical organization donated their services for this evening.

OPENED BIDS LAST NIGHT

Council Has 23 Proposals to Pump Water From River.

The bids for the entire outfit to pump water from Flatrock to be used in the boilers at the city power plant were opened and considered by the city council last night. There were twenty-three bids in all, all of which varied very little in the amounts. The reason for this action is because investigation showed that the city water caused a gathering of lime on the boilers which necessitates cleaning quite frequently and which is also chemically hard on the boilers. The council will meet tomorrow night to further consider the bids and to "skidoo" twenty-two of the twenty-three bidders.

UP AFTER BEING DOWN SIX YEARS

John Innis, Veteran Balloonist, Made Best Ascension in Recent Years Today.

HAS MADE 233 LEAPS IN LIFE

Could Not Refrain From Hearing the Call of the Bird—Has an Airship Design.

When this day has passed, John Innis, veteran balloonist, will have made two hundred and thirty-five ascensions into the air by the balloon route. Mr. Innis has been in the game too long to keep out of it now, although he has been able to refrain for six long years. They have been long years, too, because he has many times wished that he was gliding up in the air looking down on the up-turned faces of throngs of people.

He could not resist the call of the aeronaut and made a contract with the "Big Wednesday" committee to make two ascensions today. He planned to make an ascension today that would put the modern twentieth century aviators to shame and he began work three days ago to get every detail in readiness. The first thing which he did was to dig a trench. And it is no common, ordinary trench. Mr. Innis built one about three times as long as those used by the ordinary aeronauts that will retain heat and allow a big fire to rage in there.

"I am tired watching these modern methods of making an ascension," said Mr. Innis this morning, "and I am going to try it again myself. I have not been up for six long years, but I think I can do it as well as I ever did."

"Did you ever have very many accidents?" was asked him.

"No, I never had very many and then they were only small ones. I never received any very bad injuries. I have had a few misuses right here in Rush county. I fell once while making an ascension here in the city and I remember that I took a nice tumble once over at Manilla. My parachute ropes would not work right and I fell in a graveyard near there. I guess they thought that would save them the trouble of hauling he there and they could do the burying then without any moving. But I fooled them and got right up and walked away."

The old aviator has the flying business in his head and he can not get rid of it. He now has a design for an airship which he has never made up although he has been working on a model. He believes that it would put the modern air craft to shame if he could once get capital to back him in the scheme. He is still entertaining the idea of organizing a stock company and building his machine to suit his fancy.

The veteran balloonist has been in the service of the United States army. At one time he was a member of the U. S. signal corps. He received his official discharge on Feb. 15, 1899. He says that he thinks that he could get in again by a special permit although he could not pass the physical examination.

NO DARING DRIVER.

F. B. Frank, the strong man who has been showing at the Star Grand air dome this week, planned to give a free exhibition on the streets for the business men this afternoon, but his plans miscarried. No automobile driver could be found who would run over the athlete's body.

SMALL CHILD SUCCEUMS

Infant of Mr. and Mrs. B. F. Saunders Dies of Summer Complaint.

The six-months-old child of Mr. and Mrs. B. F. Saunders died at the home in West Ninth street this morning of summer complaint after a short illness. The funeral services and burial will take place at Hopewell tomorrow afternoon.

IS CHARGED WITH DESERTING ARMY

Sheriff Bebout Gets Circular Asking That Close Watch be Kept for James H. Rollins.

IS A FORMER SHIRLEY MAN

Sheriff Clata Bebout has received circulars asking him to be on the lookout for James H. Rollins, who is charged with being a deserter from the United States army, and $50 reward is offered for his capture. Rollins is described as being close to 20 years of age, five feet six and three-quarter inches high and weighing 134 pounds.

Rollins is believed to be in this vicinity, as when he enlisted July 10, 1909, he gave Shirley, Indiana, as his home and the party to be notified in case of emergency was his father, William Rollins of Shirley. The young man was a member of the 61st company, coast artillery, and deserted at Ft. Baker, Cal., August 6.

TO HOLD ANNUAL LOG ROLLING EVENT

Modern Woodmen of County Planning For an All Day Picnic at Fair Grounds Sept. 10.

BALL GAME WILL BE FEATURE

The first annual log rolling of the Modern Woodmen of America will be held at the Rush county fair ground Saturday, September 10. The event will include all of the lodges in the county. It promises to be a great affair with a big basket dinner and a band concert as the feature attractions. Modern Woodmen all over the county are urged to attend on that day and bring their guests from other parts of the State and out of the State. The program with numerous other features, which will be announced later, will take up the whole day.

The program will be started in the morning with an address of welcome by Mayor B. A. Black at ten o'clock. J. D. Voltz, State deputy, will give an address at 10:15 and at eleven o'clock, a short talk will be made by William Frank, district deputy. After the basket dinner an exhibition drill, in which teams from the camps all over the county will participate, will take place at one o'clock. At two o'clock a ball game will be played. Charles Applegate will have charge of the stand privileges.

LEAVE TO ATTEND THE CONVENTION

Ben Humes and Perry Oneal, as Delegates, go to Indianapolis For Kappa Alpha Phi Meeting.

OTHER LOCAL MEMBERS TO GO

Offers Many Attractive Features to Visiting Guests, Who Will Come From 24 Cities of the State.

Ben Humes and Perry Oneal left this morning for Indianapolis, where they are delegates to the twelfth annual convention of Kappa Alpha Phi. Kappa Alpha Phi is a social organization founded on the same principal of a college fraternity in cities, instead of colleges, and its membership is not confined to any one class of young men, with the exception that they have to be between fifteen and twenty years of age, and it is not connected in the least with the high schools in the cities where it has chapters. The fraternity was founded at Muncie, Indiana in 1898, and since that time chapters have been established in twenty-four cities of the State and it now has a membership of over 1,000.

Today was the opening day of the convention and this morning was devoted to a reception of members at the Denison hotel. Tonight the Indianapolis sororities will give a reception to the non-resident guests, after which a smoker will be held at the convention rooms at the Denison. Tomorrow morning and afternoon a business session will be held. At three o'clock the Kappas, with young women friends, will attend the Indianapolis and St. Paul baseball game enmasse. Tomorrow night the convention banquet will be held, and Ben Humes of this city is on the toast list. Friday morning and afternoon will be devoted to business meetings and on Friday evening the convention dance will be held.

J. F. Ade of Kokomo is president of the organization; A. J. Tucker of Muncie, vice president; L. Laughlin, of Bloomington, secretary; and C. C. Reynolds of Indianapolis, treasurer.

The local members who will attend are, Perry Oneal, Ben Humes, Robert Humes, Royden Cox, Edwin Watson, John Frazee, Max Wallace, Stanton McBride and Weldon Brann.

MANY ATTEND THE HORSE SALE

Sixty-two Head of Horses Were Sold by L. H. Mull at Manilla Today.

IS BECOMING ANNUAL EVENT

Many Rushville citizens attended the horse sale of Lon H. Mull today at Manilla. Sixty-two head of horses, eight head of mules, one hundred native yearling ewes, a Percheron registered mare, a Percheron colt and a Shetland pony and cart were auctioned off by F. A. Capp and D. C. Karr. Among the local men who attended the sale were Ab Denning, Will Jay, Willard Amos, Homer Powell, Larry Harris, Birney Anderson, Cicero Vance and Jesse Vance. Thomas K. Mull and George W. Mull and George W. Gross were clerks of the sale. This is becoming an annual event at Manilla, which is due to the progressiveness of L. H. Mull.

It is said that $2,500,000 is spent annually on hunting in Ireland.

OFFERS MUCH TO OLD POPULATION TILLER OF SOIL CENTER IS MOVED

Much in Proceedings of National Conservation Congress, Sept. 5 to 9, For Tillers of Soil.

STATE FAIR OPEN THAT WEEK

Each Local Organization in County, Town or Village is Entitled to Representation.

Saint Paul, Minn., August 24.—There will be much in the proceedings of the National Conservation Congress in St. Paul, September 5, 6, 7, 8, and 9, to interest the farmers of the United States and a large number of the men who till the nation's soil, produce its food and raise its horses, cattle, sheep and swine are expected to be in attendance.

Each local organization in every county, city, town or village in the United States is entitled to representation in the congress by three delegates. Each State organization of farmers is entitled to send five delegates. Already the presidents of scores of these farmers' organizations have sent in their names of delegates to Thomas R. Shipp, executive secretary, and within the next week many others are expected. The officers of the congress are particularly anxious for a large representation of farmers and have taken great pains that the program shall contain much that will interest the farmer.

James Wilson, secretary of agriculture, is to be one of the chief speakers. His subject will be "What the Government Has Done for the Farmer." This veteran farmer who has been a cabinet officer longer than any other man ever held office in a president's official family, is sure to have something to say that will interest the tillers of American soil.

Walter H. Page, editor of World's Work, a member of Roosevelt's Country Life Commission, is to speak on "The Farmer and the Nation." James J. Hill, chairman of the Great Northern Railway board of directors, a man who has done probably more than any other toward the development of the Northwest, is to speak on "Soils, Crops, Food and Clothing." Gifford Pinchot, Henry Wallace, Dr. W. J. McGee of the bureau of soils, Department of Agriculture, and Dr. Liberty Hyde Bailey, dean of the Agricultural College, Cornell University, are among others who will deliver addresses of particular interest to the farmers.

The probable revival of the Country Life Commission by some of the men mentioned and others who are coming to the congress is another feature that will interest the farmer, while the Minnesota State Fair, the greatest of its kind in the world, will open during conservation week.

HE IS GIVEN A GREAT WELCOME

Roosevelt Talks to New York
Farmers.

HE MERELY HINTS AT POLITICS

Indorses Senator Davenport, Who Opposes the Sherman-Woodruff Machine and Is in Favor of the Direct Primary Movement and Revision of the Payne-Aldrich Tariff Schedule.

Utica, N. Y., Aug. 24.—Mr. Roosevelt came into Vice President Sherman's home town and began his long speech-making tour by swatting Mr. Sherman. The colonel did not mention names, because that was not necessary. Ten thousand farmers and their wives gathered in a grove of tall, graceful maple trees and sat and waited for the colonel to hit Sunny Jim. They did not have long to wait and they roared with delight when it came. The occasion was the second annual picnic of the Herkimer and Oneida Grangers.

Ostensibly it was a time for farm talk exclusively, but Mr. Roosevelt had other things on his mind, following political events of yesterday. The colonel, after he got through with a political stab, devoted himself to an interesting delivery of a speech on things which the farmers ought to do.

Mr. Roosevelt, as he arose to speak, swept his eye over the picturesque crowd which was settled down for the feature of the picnic, and it rested upon Senator Davenport. The colonel beamed. He faced his audience.

"I am glad to see on the platform," he shouted, "Senator Davenport." The seats shook and the crowd gave the senator a hand greater even than T. R. received. It was a real ovation. Davenport, ardent supporter of direct primaries, Hughes man, and a bitter foe of Sherman, who has been working to throw him out and has repudiated him, was confused. He had not estimated his popularity, apparently.

"I am glad," the colonel continued, when the cheering had ceased, "because the only kind of politics I care for is the kind of politics where decency is combined with efficiency, and I hold that the only way by which a politician can efficiently serve his party is by helping the party to efficiently serve the people, and because the senator and those associated with him who have stood for those principles are on the platform."

Mr. Roosevelt had to stop several moments in order to finish his tribute.

"You will at least notice that my utterances are free from ambiguity," he concluded. It was this sort of thing that made the colonel solid right at the outset of his performance. His hearers waited for more of it, but it did not come. At the end of Mr. Roosevelt's address, however, there were repeated cries for Davenport, who had been sitting on the stage. The senator in a Prince Albert suit, remonstrated, but it was useless—they insisted.

"You have listened to a magnificent speech by a magnificent man," he said. "He represents to my mind better than any other man since Abraham Lincoln the heart and the conscience and the courage of the great body of our people. He has been my ideal. I want to stand for the things he stands for."

Theodore Douglas Robinson, who was recently beaten at the primaries by the Sherman machine of Herkimer and Oneida, sat close by and enjoyed the exchange of courtesies.

Mr. Roosevelt's address contained very few startling things. It was more of a sermon than anything else, but was an interesting and instructive sermon, and the big audience followed the speaker with marked attention.

A BAD WINDSTORM

One Million Dollars' Loss Is Reported at Chicago.

Chicago, Aug. 24.—More than a score of persons were injured, one probably fatally, crops in the surrounding districts were destroyed, and damage which may amount to $1,000,000 was wrought in a storm which swept the city and suburbs yesterday. The wind at the height of the gale was of cyclonic proportions.

Lake boats by the dozen were torn from their moorings and blown ashore, including some of the finest yachts owned by the Chicago and Columbia clubs. Among the wrecked boats is the Lipton cup winner, Spray.

Lightning struck the cables of the street railways many times, passengers on the way home in the early hours deserting the vehicles for shelter in doorways. One bolt struck the Hyde Park police station.

The Browne Trial.

Chicago, Aug. 24.—"I wanted to get something on Senator Lorimer. It was not in an effort to blackmail him that I offered my manuscript for sale to him—I simply wanted to get a letter from him about it." After hours of cross-examination by Attorney W. S. Forrest for the defense, that was the repeated statement of Charles A. White on the witness stand in the trial of Lee O'Neill Browne, charged with bribing White to vote for Lorimer for senator.

A Singer Silenced.

San Francisco, Aug. 24.—May Yohe (Lady Hope) suddenly collapsed here while singing in one of the downtown cafes, where she began an engagement several weeks ago. Physicians announced that she is suffering from temporary paralysis affecting one side of her body, and it is feared her public career is ended. The collapse came while Miss Yohe was in the middle of her song and when the place was crowded.

Organized Labor Protests.

Washington, Aug. 24.—Copies of a resolution condemning moving pictures depicting strike scenes have been printed by organized labor and will be sent broadcast throughout the country in a national crusade against such films. Labor leaders here declare that the moving pictures showing strikers wreaking vengeance on property of their employers and committing other depredations were inspired by the enemies of organized labor. They believe that there is a systematic plan to make this conspiracy, as they call it, national in effect and accordingly they have started a national fight in opposition.

TAFT WOULD LIKE REVISION

President Writes Congressman McKinley.

HIS FUTURE MOVEMENTS

The President Will Get Back to Washington in September, Going First to Beverly After His Trip to the Northwest to Attend the Conservation Congress at St. Paul.

Beverly, Mass., Aug. 24.—President Taft will give the first state week-end party at the White House the latter part of next month that that historic mansion has seen in many a long year. The president will have as his house guests for at least three days beginning Sept. 26 all the members of his cabinet. From the White House proper they will be able to walk over unobserved to the executive offices and hold cabinet meetings galore.

The president has announced a change of plans for the month of September. He will leave Beverly for St. Paul and the conservation congress on Sept. 3, according to the old and the new schedules. Returning from St. Paul, however, the president will come direct to Beverly instead of dropping down to Washington for a few days. On Sept. 20 he will leave Beverly for Washington, where he will remain probably until Sept. 29, when he is due to start for New York. On Sept. 30 the president will make his keynote address to the League of Republican clubs at Carnegie hall. From New York he will come straight back to Beverly, where he may stay until a few days before election.

The resignation of Secretary Ballinger is expected to appear at the cabinet meeting in Washington next month. According to gossip here now the resignation will not be forthcoming then, and probably will not show up until November, at the earliest.

A scientific revision of certain schedules of the present tariff is to be one of the prophecies with which the voters of the country are to be greeted in the Republican campaign textbook out next month. Mr. Taft himself is to be sponsor for this implied promise. It will be a promise not only to revise certain schedules of the Payne-Aldrich law, but it will show that thereby the business of this country will not be upset. It will assure revision on scientific lines and without the unscientific results of business depression.

In the letter which the president mailed from Beverly to Representative McKinley at Chicago this promise was contained. The revision of individual schedules is to be made on information furnished by the tariff commission which is now at work collecting data showing the relative cost of production here and abroad. The commission has conducted its investigations into each schedule which was thought worthy of inquiry.

The president pointed out in the letter he sent to Mr. McKinley that there were some schedules of the Payne-Aldrich law which probably could be improved. He asserted that it was his purpose that if the tariff commission collected data showing that schedules were not right they be made right. The president held the opinion that a revision of certain individual schedules did not imply a revision of all.

SHE WAS DRESSED IN BOY'S CLOTHES

This Girl Worked As a Detective.

New York, Aug. 24.—Florence Landon, an English girl, who had masqueraded as a man for two months, working as an amateur detective, a grocer's boy and a waiter, confessed her identity to a detective. After a talk with Magistrate House she was sent to the Florence Crittenden home. She will be dressed in woman's attire and sent back to England.

Hearing that a reward of $5,000 was being offered for the arrest of the kidnapper of an Italian boy, she set to work as an amateur detective. The search proved unsuccessful and after three weeks she abandoned it. Then she got a job as a grocer's boy at $6 a week. Fearing detection here she left and secured a position as a waiter in a Broadway restaurant. She was still working there when the detective found her out. She said that she was twenty-one years old and that her parents were well-to-do residents of London.

Double Tragedy.

Philadelphia, Aug. 24.—Angered by the refusal of his wife to receive him in her home until the expiration of a period of probation, Ellwood Smith, fifty-one years old, a wealthy contractor, shot and instantly killed his wife, Bella, aged thirty, in the second story of their dwelling on North Fifteenth street. He then sent a bullet into his own brain, dying shortly afterward in St. Joseph's hospital.

The Chicago Record-Herald, although it is the journal that raised the tremendous cry against the tariff on imported ladies' hose, gives credit for Vice President Sherman and Senator Charles Curtis, relative to the Senator Gore investigation. The Record-Herald says:

"Both Vice President Sherman and Senator Charles Curtis have received a clean bill in the matter of the charges concerning contracts for the sale of Indian lands. They are completely exonerated in statements issued by an investigating committee of the House of Representatives and by Senator Gore.

Naturally there was widespread interest when the name of the vice president was brought into the affair, and, although it was felt that he could have no connection with the alleged grafting scheme, the public will be glad that not the slightest suspicion can now attach to him.

"It is to be noted that Senator Gore really occupied a more embarrassing position than either the vice president or Senator Curtis and he emphasizes the fact that he introduced their names in his testimony with great reluctance and after he had entered a formal protest, and that his statement is commended by the committee."

Are the Leaders to Be Deposed?

(St. Louis Globe-Democrat.)

The only significance which attaches to Representative Longworth's opposition to the re-election of Mr. Cannon to the speakership lies in the possibility that the president incited it or assented to it. Mr. Longworth says that, in the Republican caucus, he will work against the re-nomination of Mr. Cannon. He makes a positive disclaimer, however, of any outside influence in impelling him to prepare his statement. "I want it especially understood that I say this solely on my own responsibility, and on the suggestion of no one else," he adds. As he has been at Beverly, though for several days, and as he gave out the statement there, the impression will be created that it is inspired by somebody higher up. But unless Mr. Taft, directly or indirectly, furnishes some tangible evidence that he stands behind Mr. Longworth in this position the assumption that he is a party to the war upon the presiding officer of the House will not be entirely safe.

Several considerations will here suggest themselves. Mr. Longworth represents just one district out of the 223 which have Republican representatives in the Sixty-first Congress. Just how many seats the Republicans will have in the House of the Sixty-second Congress nobody will be able to tell until the returns are counted on the night of November 8. A dozen or more of the Republicans of the present House showed their hostility to Mr. Cannon in the recent session. Some of these doubtless will be in the next House, but more than one of them will probably be defeated in the coming election. They have given a good deal of aid and comfort to the Democrats, but the Democrats have candidates of their own, and will refuse to reciprocate. Chairman Lloyd's Congressional Committee is working for a Democratic House, and not for one which will be Democratic merely through the help which the insurgents furnish to it. The insurgents who happen to be defeated in the coming election may say that the Democrats are ungrateful, but their complaints will not arouse much sympathy from loyal Republicans. All the insurgents would, if they had clung to the party which elected them in 1908, and to which they appeal for votes in 1910, be stronger before the people in the present canvass than now they can be. If, as the Democrats predict, a Democratic House should be elected in November, the defection of Mr. Longworth and such comrades as he may have will exert no positive influence on subsequent events. The Democrats will elect the speaker of that chamber, and the act of the seceders will merely add a chapter to the roll of party recreancy which the backsliders of 1872, 1884 and 1896 wrote.

But why should the Republican party want to remove its old leaders? What offense has Mr. Aldrich or Mr. Cannon committed that they should be singled out for sacrifice? Through all their manhood years these men have been fighting the battles of the Republican party. Since they have been old enough to take any active part in politics these men have been on the party's firing line. Nobody has ever charged that either of them faltered in his support of a Republican ticket or platform. If devotion to historic Republicanism—the Republicanism of Lincoln, Sherman, Grant, McKinley, Allison and the rest of the fathers or champions of the party—be accounted in these latter days a misdemeanor, then the party will have to adopt a new code of ethics. Then the deposition of Mr. Cannon and Mr. Aldrich will arouse no dissent among the adherents of the new school of Republicans. But what will the old Republicans, the men who have been winning the party victories during all the decades of the party's life, think of this act? If, after the series of battles in the Wilderness, Grant had been removed just as he was preparing to get the death grip on Lee which resulted in Appomattox, what effect would this act have had upon the fortunes of the Union? What would the national armies of the East or the West have thought about it? What would the friends of human freedom throughout the world, whose battles Grant was fighting, have said about our government's folly? Yet Mr. Taft would have as little excuse for wishing to have the Republican members of the House depose Mr. Cannon as President Lincoln would have had to remove Grant in the summer of 1864. If the Republican party should decree the effacement of such chieftains as Messrs. Cannon and Aldrich in this crisis of the party's life, the flag of historical Republicanism would have to be hauled down, and another name, another creed and other ideals and aspirations would have to be adopted.

Few Appreciate Vestibuled Train

Few people who travel on a modern vestibule railroad passenger train appreciate the luxury of present day transportation or realize the expense and trouble that railroads go to to provide a journey across the continent that will be a pleasant memory instead of a nightmare. Owing to the unappreciative attitude of the average traveler, managers of passenger departments often grow discouraged and wonder whether it is worth while to go to such extreme lengths in the effort to please the traveling public.

Having expressed this doubt, they immediately begin to scheme to see if they can not better their service in some respect hitherto overlooked. So great has become the rivalry between the various transcontinental railroads that nothing has been left undone to make the service ideal. Ten years ago railway managers would have laughed at some of the things that are being done today and are accepted as good business.

For example, the man who ten years ago would have proposed the establishment of chicken, dairy and truck farms by the railroad in order to give the best possible dining car service would have been considered as a fit subject for an asylum, and yet today the Northern Pacific railroad maintains all of these industries, which are regarded as among the most valuable assets of its passenger business. Likewise the man who a decade ago had proposed providing for limited trains, musical concerts, maids, stenographers, crop and market reports, baseball reports, libraries, the latest publications, and a large parlor to put them in, would, very likely, have been put into a straight-jacket.

Notwithstanding this fact, the Rock Island management is today providing all of its limited train patrons with two musical concerts daily through the medium of talking machines, and is even carrying a tailor to press and repair clothing. Such luxuries of travel as these have been a matter of gradual growth, and the traveling public has come to accept the wonderful and modern transportation methods as being ordinary and unworthy of special note. Not a few of these innovations have been brought into service against the opposition of one or more of the principal officers of the railroad introducing them.

The latest innovation of travel, namely, the talking machines, met with strenuous opposition on the part of some of the higher officials on the Rock Island road. Notwithstanding this fact, vice-president John Sabastian persisted and at considerable expense provided each of his several vestibule trains with a machine, a man to operate it, and began giving half-hour concerts twice daily. The plan met with immediate success, and although the other road managers scoffed at the idea, there is not the slightest doubt that they soon will be forced to do it, with the result that before long grand opera at sixty miles an hour will be looked upon as an ordinary, instead of an unusual thing.

Thus it has also been with the farming ventures of the Northern Pacific and the Burlington roads, which are now established facts of travel and which will undoubtedly spread to other railroads. The management of the Northern Pacific road has just announced that owing to the gratifying results of one year's experience, that company has gone into specialized farming, on a large scale, and will add materially to the eleven thousand hens which are now working for its dining car department. The Northern Pacific poultry farm is at Kent, Wash., near Seattle where on fifty-two acres of land, the eleven thousand white Leghorn chickens are producing an average of 10,050 eggs a day.

Paper Making a Vast Industry

Next to Iron and Steel it is the Greatest Industry
In the World—Nearly Everything Can Be Made From Paper

Writing about the many things of which paper is made, and also of the many things made of paper, a good authority says there is nothing so good as linen for fine papers. Many other things serve as substitutes, but linen is the best of all. Patents have been issued in Europe and this country, for the manufacture of paper from barley, oats, rice, Indian corn, peas, beans, alfalfa, raimie, pine needles, sugar cane refuse, jute, moss, seaweed, tobacco, lichens, the leaves and bark of trees, beets, potatoes and many other things.

In most cases the price of manufacture is excessive when we consider the quality of the product. The great bulk of our paper—not the best, but that most commonly used—is made from the wood of certain trees. Paper can be made from nearly anything, and nearly anything can be made from paper. With compressed paper are made wheels, rails, cannons, horseshoes, polishers for gems, bicycles, and asphalted tubes for gas or electric wires.

Berlin has made an attempt to make artificial brick with wood pulp and zinc sulphate. After subjecting them to an enormously high pressure, they are baked for forty-eight hours. These have been used for paving streets. In similar fashion roofing tiles and water pipes are being made.

SEEK LOCATION FOR NEW FACTORY

VanCamp Packing Company of Indianapolis Would Build Evaporating Milk Plant.

SENDING OUT LETTERS

Wish to Find City of Less Than 15,000 Inhabitants—Are Receiving Offers.

The Van Camp Packing Company of Indianapolis is seeking a location in a small town to locate a factory to manufacture evaporated milk. They are sending out a letter to most of the county seat cities although none has been received here, asking what overtures will be made as to a bonus or a site. The company is looking for a town of less than fifteen thousand inhabitants where they will have good access to the surrounding country, from which they expect to get their milk. It is possible that the Rushville Retail Merchant's Association may consider the proposition. The letter in part is as follows:

"The VanCamp Packing Company of Indianapolis is looking for a suitable location for the erection of a milk factory to manufacture evaporated milk, which must meet the following requirement:
"At least 50,000 pounds of milk per day to start with, which could be built up later to 100,000 pounds and over per day. This milk must be obtainable within a radius of six miles. Enough good water to insure at least 225,000 gallons per day. Good sewerage conditions. Do not want to locate in fresh milk territories, where supply is going by milk trains to large cities. They desire to be advised as to the present disposition of milk. Do not care to locate in community exceeding 15,000 population. Smaller community preferred. Will you kindly advise these people what you have to offer in this direction, also say whether free site or bonus is obtainable."

HOLD FAMILY REUNION.

The second annual reunion of the Rea family was held at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Harry Land near Milroy Sunday. It was the first time that all of the members of the family have been together for several years. Those from a distance, who were present were Smith Rea of Jefferson county; Mr. and Mrs. Scott Taylor and daughter Marie of Shelby county; Mr. and Mrs. Harry Lee, Mrs. Della Gabhart and son Donald and Roscoe and Welby Rea of Indianapolis, and Miss Clara Rea of Jefferson county. Harve Rea, formerly of Milroy, but now of California, was the only member of the family who was unable to attend.

The Value of Advertising

Dump out a can of popular baking powder, put it in a can with an unknown name and you can hardly sell it at any price. The powder is just the same. The additional value is in the name. Recently an estate was offered $1,000,000 for the name—"Talcum Powder" and the use of his picture. There is no secret in the powder. Any good chemist can duplicate it. Without doubt, to discontinue advertising either of these products for one year would seriously impair their trade value, possibly destroy it entirely.

The same rule governs the advertising of retail stores. Floating trade—from the sidewalk—will always amount to something, but only continuous advertising will assure continuous business from people who otherwise would never know of your existence.

Why do small advertisers fail? Because they overlook one or more of the basic principles of the science. There are four things for the advertiser always to bear in mind—first, having something to advertise; second, put your matter in such form that it will attract the eye; third, select a medium that will reach the purchaser, and, fourth, stand back of your advertisement. No one of these principles can be violated without sacrificing the value of the ad.

Have something advertised. Have a stock that will sell—things that people want, things that are new. Make it mean something, and something that have value. It is useless to advertise to get people into your store and then have nothing to show them. Don't always try to advertise the whole store at once. Select some part of it and then go it strong and have the goods on hand when the prospective purchaser arrives.

Put your ad. into some form that it will attract the eye. In this day and age of the world people don't have time to read a whole newspaper to find out what you have to say about your goods. A dozen words are often more effective than a whole page, thing in particular.

AMUSEMENTS

The Palace theater will offer a big double bill tonight, which will include the regular picture and the special film which was shown this afternoon. "Under Western Skies," Essanay film, is a drama of more than ordinary interest. A young eastern woman in the west is left alone in a cabin, where she has moved, during the night while her brother journeys to a nearby town. A crowd of drunken cowboys enter the cabin and she agrees to marry one of them if he will save her from the others. He acquiesces and they are married even though the young woman is engaged to a young man from the east. The following tribulations of the couple and very unexpected climax makes the film an unusual one. "Advertisement and Answered," a comedy which was shown this afternoon will be used tonight.

The Vaudet will offer a Bison feature film for its patrons tonight. "A Cowboy's Reward" is the name of the tale which will be told by the subject to be shown. As the topic suggests, it is a story of western life, full of vim, vigor and action that is typical of pictures of such a character.

F. B. Frank, the strong man, will make his last appearance at the Star Grand airdome tonight after a three days' engagement. He allowed an automobile furnished by the Reeves Motor Company to pass over his bare stomach as a free attraction in front of the theater last night. A large crowd congested traffic in Morgan street while the free act was in progress. Mr. Frank will change his act considerably tonight putting on some new features.

"The Wooing O'T," a Vitagraph comedy, is the film which will be shown at the airdome tonight. It contains none of the slap-stick variety of comedy but contains a lot of good high class humor with a sprinkling of youthful vigor and romp. A few girls and boys get a couple of old people going the same pace with them. Earl Robertson will sing "When the Bells Ring, Mary."

Arima hesitated, but the muzzle of the revolver turned toward him, and he came and stood a few feet away.

"There's somethin' mighty funny about this," continued the policeman. "We'll just get into one of these cars and go to the station."

"This man and me?" asked Orme. He had visions of no great difficulty in satisfying the questions of the local justice, but he knew that an arrest would mean delay, perhaps of hours. And Arima had the papers.

"I mean that man, and you, and the woman. I'll send some one for the others. If you're the fellow that did the slugging on the campus last night, you won't get away from me again."

"What's the use of dragging the young lady into this?" demanded Orme.

"None o' your business."

"Can I speak to her a minute, first?"

"No, you can't. There's been too many Chicago hold-up men around here lately, and I won't take chances with you." The policeman made this explanation apparently in deference to Orme's appearance, which, in spite of the evidence of struggle, was that of a gentleman. "Looks don't always tell," he continued.

That the girl should be taken to the station and held, under such suspicious circumstances was simply not to be thought of.

Doubtless she could quickly set in motion forces that would liberate her, but the disgrace of detention was something she must be saved from at any cost.

She was known in Evanston. Her identity once established, the story of her arrest would be sure to spread. Her position would then be the more painful, because the circumstances of the case were such that she was unwilling to explain them.

Moreover, Orme realized that, if he and Arima were held, the care of the girl would be his first thought, and the recovery of the papers would be forced into second place. That would not be according to her wish. Assuredly, if he was to get the papers, he could do better alone.

She sat in the car, not more than six feet from him, her face the picture of mingled emotions. Orme saw that he must reassure her as to himself before he carried out the plan which had suddenly come to his mind.

"You will make a mistake, officer, if you detain me," he said, speaking distinctly, so that the girl would be sure to hear.

"Cut it out," said the policeman.

"A little telephoning will set me free in an hour," Orme continued, bending to pick up his hat, which had fallen to the ground at the beginning of the fight. "You can't do anything except take me to the station and find out that you have bungled."

"That's my affair," said the policeman. "But here, we've done enough talkin'." He waved his revolver in a gesture which indicated that they were to enter the car.

Now, Orme knew that the girl had not seen him throw the papers to the road. Neither had she seen Arima pick them up. Whatever guess she had made as to his disposal of them, there was no reason for her to doubt that he had again got them into his possession, during some stage of the struggle.

He looked at her earnestly and significantly, then smiled slightly in the thought of reassuring her.

When he was certain that she was watching his every move, he glanced at the car, then up the road to the north. Then, with such quickness that the policeman had no time to prevent, he snatched from the inner pocket of his coat the envelope containing the blank contract which had first disappointed Arima, and tossed it into the tonneau.

"Go!" he shouted.

Like a shot, she sent the car forward. It disappeared swiftly into the night.

Thus far, Orme was satisfied. He had got the girl safely away. She thought that he had thrown the papers into the car, and when she came to examine them she would be disappointed, but Orme felt that she would then understand—that she would continue to trust him.

As the car darted away the policeman swung his club at Orme.

Before the blow could strike, the upraised arm was caught by a little hand and with a quick jerk, the policeman was pulled to the ground. His revolver, which he held in his left hand, went off as he fell, and a leaf, cut from a tree above by the bullet, sailed into Orme's face.

The policeman lay helpless in the cunning hold of Maku—Maku, who, fully restored to his senses, had crept up to save Arima from the law.

Orme wondered whether the girl had heard the shot. Probably not, for she was driving into the wind. But he had no time to consider the point, for Arima, suddenly conscious of freedom, leaped for the remaining car. He had the papers; he would hurry them safely to his master, leaving Orme and the policeman to the mercies of his reviving confederates.

The papers were still first in his thoughts. And why not? Orme remembered the scathing rebuke by the Japanese minister. In the flash of thought that preceded his own action he realized that the recovering of the papers was Arima's one means of righting himself.

As Arima grasped the steering wheel of the car and threw on the clutch, Orme ran behind the tonneau. His action was swiftly calculated to give the impression that he was dodging around the car in the hope of escaping on foot.

That is what Arima might have thought, had he glanced around—what Maku might have thought, had he done more than throw one swift glance at Arima, then devote himself again to the prostrate officer.

But Orme, reaching upward, got his hands over the high back of the tonneau. He hung on tightly, raising his feet from the ground. The car plunged forward.

For a time Orme merely kept his position. The dust whirled up in his face, and he had to close his eyes, but he was conscious that the car was gaining speed rapidly.

The situation was as difficult as it was dangerous. He planned nothing less than to climb into the car and deal with Arima even while they were flying along the road. But he must wait until they had gone a safe distance from the battleground. On the other hand, he must act before they got into the thickly settled streets of the town.

He figured that they had gone about a quarter of a mile, when he began his effort. Pulling himself up by his hands, he peered over the back of the tonneau. He could see Arima, huddled forward over the steering-wheel, doubtless watching the road ahead with a careful eye for obstacles and for the police.

For Arima was driving the car at a law-breaking speed. Clearly, he was an adept at motoring. But Orme did not stop to ask himself how a humble teacher of jiu-jitsu—a professional athlete—had acquired so much skill in the handling of a car.

It proved hard to get into the tonneau. Several times he got one leg almost over the back, only to be dislodged as the car bumped into a rut or over a stone. Once he almost lost his grip entirely. But a final effort gave him a leg hold, and slowly—very slowly—he climbed over to the leather cushions of the wide seat.

If Arima now turned and saw him, almost anything might happen. But before he could become conscious that anyone was near him, Orme was crouching in the tonneau.

IT'S ALWAYS BAD

The Best of Backs Are Bad When They Ache, and Rushville People Know It.

A bad back is always bad. Bad at night when bedtime comes, Just as bad in the morning.

Ever try Doan's Kidney Pills for it?

Know they cure backache—cure every kidney ill?

If you don't, some Rushville people do.

Read a case of it:

George Priest, 223 West Third Street, Rushville, Ind., says: "I was bothered by attacks of kidney trouble for several years and as time passed my condition became worse. There was a dull pain directly over my kidneys and I had spells of dizziness and weakness. My sight often became blurred and I knew that something must be done. Three years ago Doan's Kidney Pills were brought to my attention and were so highly recommended that I got a box at F. B. Johnson & Co.'s Drug Store. They proved to be the best kidney medicine I had ever taken and in a short time had entirely relieved me. On several occasions during the past three years I have taken Doan's Kidney Pills and they have always given entire satisfaction."

SAGE FOR DARKENING THE HAIR.

There is nothing new about the idea of using sage for restoring the color of the hair. Our great-grandmothers kept their locks soft, dark and glossy by using a "sage tea." Whenever their hair fell out or took on a dull, faded or streaked appearance, they made a brew of sage leaves and applied it to their hair with wonderfully beneficial effect. Nowadays we don't have to resort to the old-time, tiresome method of gathering the herbs and making the brew. This is done by skillful chemists better than we could do it ourselves, and all we have to do is to call for the ready-made product. Wyeth's Sage and Sulphur, containing sage in the proper strength, with the addition of Sulphur, another old-time scalp remedy. This preparation is sold by all first-class druggists for 50c. and $1.00 a bottle, is sent direct by the Wyeth Chemical Company, 74 Cortlandt St., New York City, upon receipt of price.

For sale and recommended by Hargrove & Mullin.

The car was going at a 35 mile clip. The street lights were flashing by, and not far ahead were the frequent lights of houses. Nothing could be done here; therefore Orme got down as low as he could. He realized that he would have to wait till they had passed through the town.

Arima had not remained on the Sheridan road. He had taken a street which struck off from it, more directly southward, and Orme surmised that the intention was to avoid the main streets of Evanston.

When the car came to a cross street and turned westward this surmise was strengthened. They bumped over railroad tracks. Several times they passed other vehicles.

Presently Orme raised his head and discovered that the houses were thinning out. The car appeared to be heading straight into the open country, and Arima put on more speed. Forty miles an hour was not a high estimate for the rate at which they were travelling.

For several minutes Orme continued in his crouching position. The positions of the stars told him that they were still going west—not south toward Chicago. Every turn of the wheels, therefore, was carrying him farther into unknown territory—farther from the girl and all chance of communicating with her. Surely he must act soon, if he was to act at all; for Arima evidently was proceeding to some rendezvous, where Orme might find himself again in the midst of an overwhelming number of enemies.

But what could he do? Rapidly he turned over in his mind the various courses open to him. Should he try to stun Arima with a blow, and then reach forward and take the steering wheel before the car could swerve into the ditch?

The blow might not prove effective. In that case, the chances were that Arima would involuntarily swing the car to one side. Then there would be a smash—with death or serious injury threatening both Arima and himself.

Should he try to cut a tire? The feat was almost impossible. In attempting it, he would run great risk of premature discovery, and even if he succeeded in the attempt, the situation would be little changed. The necessity of stopping the car to make repairs might not put Arima in his hands.

The plan he at last decided upon was to throw his left arm around Arima's neck and draw him straight back, trusting that he might be able to get over the seat and set the brakes without losing his grip. The throat of the jiu-jitsu adept is tough, made so by patient development of neck muscles, but Orme had a strong arm, and he believed, moreover, that Arima would not have time to protect himself by stiffening his muscles before the grip was secured.

The car was skimming along over the turnpike like some flying bird of night. Orme glanced back over the way they had come. A soft electric glow in the sky told where Evanston lay, several miles to the east. Far to the south a greater glow showed the position of Chicago.

Pulling himself erect, Orme leaned forward. It seemed as though Arima must hear him breathe. Slowly he advanced his arm. Then, darting swiftly, he threw it around Arima's neck and drew backwards with a jerk.

The Japanese was taken completely unawares. Uttering a strangled cry, he let go of the steering wheel and clutched at the choking arm that held him; he could not break the grip.

Meanwhile Orme reached for the steering wheel with his free arm. But Arima, kicking frantically, struck the wheel with his foot, just as Orme was about to seize it. The car turned sharply to one side. Into the ditch it plunged.

As the fore wheels dropped into the depression, the body of the car rose in the air. Orme, still clinging to Arima, shot forward. He was conscious, in that fraction of a second, that he must release his hold, or Arima's neck would be broken; so he unbent his arm.

The earth arose and something struck him heavily. He saw a firmament of brilliant stars. Then all was black.

SERIOUS STORM DAMAGE

Northwestern Indiana Has a Severe Storm.

Hammond, Ind., Aug. 24.—A destructive storm swept over the Calumet region at 2 o'clock this morning, affecting the cities of Hammond, Whiting, East Chicago, Indiana Harbor and Gary, and causing damage estimated at $250,000. One man, John Karnes, was struck by a falling beam at Indiana Harbor, and his back was broken. He is dying at St. Margaret's hospital in Hammond. Several men at the Republic Iron and Steel mills in East Chicago were slightly hurt by the falling of a brick wall. Many houses at Indiana Harbor were wrecked.

The storm was of unusual severity. Telegraph and telephone poles were blown down, and in Hammond nearly every tree in the path of the wind, which had a velocity of ninety miles an hour, was uprooted.

Intimates That Roosevelt Acted Officially.

New York, Aug. 24.—William Barnes, jr., of Albany, representing the "old guard," the regular New York state Republican organization, issued a statement in which he said: "All citizens will rejoice at the statement of Mr. Roosevelt that he will go to the Saratoga convention, if Nassau county will send him, and that there will be no compromise on his part, because the people are entitled to know where the Republican party stands on all public matters. Differences between members of a political party should be fought out at political conventions. Then when the majority opinion has been recorded it is the duty of all to support the ticket and the platform or leave activity in the party. Representative government is the foundation stone of the American republic. Individualism has run riot. It is made to appear that the people lost their minds in the demand for a dictatorship."

"When Mr. Roosevelt at a Harvard commencement, after an absence of over one year, sent a telegram that the method of making nominations in the state of New York should be revised in accordance with a measure which had not yet been printed, the details of which were known to not half a dozen men, the legislature rightfully resented his action. When Mr. Griscom interjected Mr. Roosevelt's name as a candidate for temporary chairmanship of the state convention without the members of the committee knowing where Roosevelt stood on the issues now before the people in this state and after the vice president had been placed in nomination before the committee, thereby forcing an issue which it was not the intention of the majority of the committee to create, he threw a firebrand in the situation entirely unwarranted and for what purpose it is not for me to say."

SCHURMAN FOR GOVERNOR

The Latest Boom to Be Sprung in New York State.

Ithaca, N. Y., Aug. 24.—Congressman John W. Dwight, Republican whip in the house of representatives and one of those who voted for Colonel Theodore Roosevelt for temporary chairman of the state convention, says that the colonel will be heard as a delegate on the floor of the convention, and the congressman says the colonel will have more chance to express his views as a delegate than as chairman. Mr. Dwight is going to the convention with a boom for President Schurman of Cornell university for governor. It is understood that Dwight has been canvassing this section of the state for Schurman, and it is reported many New York leaders are in favor of him.

The Cudahys Divorced.

Kansas City, Aug. 24.—Mrs. "Jack" Cudahy has filed suit for divorce in court here. The petition was on account of "incompatibility." It had been agreed that the four children should be given to the care of Mr. Cudahy's father, Michael Cudahy of Omaha. A friend of the family said that Cudahy senior has agreed to pay her $5,000 for the first year and $3,000 per year thereafter as long as she remains single. She is to have the household furniture.

HOW IT IS THAT THE CITIES LOSE

Result of Workings of the Barrett Law.

COMBINED LOSS ENORMOUS

Richmond's Experience Calls Attention to the Law's Defects—Remedy Will Probably Be Sought Before the Legislature Next Winter.

Richmond, Ind., Aug. 24.—That heavy losses are suffered by many Indiana cities in the handling of improvement bonds issued under the Barrett law, has been revealed as a result of an investigation just concluded here. Though the detailed results of an examination of the improvement bond records of the city, covering a period of a dozen years or more, have not been made public, it is known that a loss of $21,998.98 has been suffered by the city of Richmond during this time as a result of the shrinkage due to the payment of interest after property owners had met their obligations in advance of the waived period.

For instance, if John Smith's assessment for the making of a sidewalk improvement is $150 and he decides to take ten years in which to pay, waiver improvement bonds bearing 5 per cent interest per annum are issued and sold by the contractor to whom they are delivered.

The bonds run ten years, but if John Smith at the end of two years decides that he wishes to do away with the installment plan of meeting his assessment and pays the balance in one installment, the city demands only one year's additional interest. The bonds run eight years more and unless the city calls them in, which it has the legal right to do, the interest for the remaining seven years must be paid annually out of the city's coffers.

If it happened that only once in a long time these waived assessments were paid up before the period for which they were taken had expired, there would be little for a city to grumble over, but as a matter of fact there is a large percentage of property owners who pay up their full assessments before the ten years expire, and many of them make full settlement after the first or second year.

A Wealthy Robber.

Martinsville, Ind., Aug. 24.—Hugh M. Bercaw, a retired farmer worth $250,000, was arrested here on a charge of burglary, being detected in the act of stealing from the store of Benjamin Pavey. The dealer had been missing little articles from time to time, especially cigars and tobacco, and he concluded to keep a watch for the thief. He rents the store-room from Bercaw, and he saw his landlord fit a key into the lock of the rear door and enter and make selections from the cigar case. He confronted Bercaw in the store, but did not order his arrest at once.

Authorities Will Investigate.

Corydon, Ind., Aug. 24.—Several days ago the body of Andrew Ebert was buried here. Death having occurred at the southern hospital for the insane at Evansville. Relatives became suspicious and the coroner exhumed the body and discovered that Ebert had died from a blow on the head that had fractured the skull. The local authorities have started an investigation at the hospital on the theory that Ebert was murdered and the hospital authorities tried to conceal the fact. No cause for the man's death was assigned when his body was brought here.

Illinois Central Graft.

Chicago, Aug. 24.—That the graft in the Illinois Central may reach $4,000,000 was indicated when audit figures prepared for the board of directors during several years became public. Another development came when Detective William Burns, who has been conducting the graft investigation for the road, suddenly left Chicago for Memphis. This was preceded by a report that one of the most important witnesses for the road, a grafter who had confessed, had disappeared and that Burns had gone to find him.

Three Killed.

New York, Aug. 24.—A man and two little girls were instantly killed and eight others were seriously injured when an auto with five occupants jumped beneath raised gates onto the westbound track of the Montauk division of the Long Island railroad directly in the path of a construction train at the Merrick road crossing over the railroad tracks between the village of Springfield and Jamaica. Those killed were in the auto party—the injured included the other three people who were in the car and members of a construction gang on the train, who were thrown about when the auto derailed the two cars of the train at the impact of the collision.

Fear For Four Hundred.

Spokane, Wash., Aug. 24.—Four hundred persons may be dead in the forest fires in the Panhandle country of Idaho. The whole mountain country is ablaze and 300 fire fighters who were known to be in the burning woods have not been heard from.

SENSATIONAL CHARGES

Former Congressman Must Face the Courts.

Franklin, Pa., Aug. 24.—Joseph C. Sibley, who withdrew as a candidate for congress on the Republican ticket in the Twenty-eighth Pennsylvania district, was arrested late at night on a warrant charging "conspiracy to defraud voters." Sibley gave illness as the cause of his withdrawal.

Sibley was released on his own recognizance to appear before Justice of the Peace Perry at Warren, Pa., on Aug. 26. The arrest came a few hours after he had announced his withdrawal from the congressional race. According to his own figures, filed in obedience to the legislative act requiring a public statement of a candidate's expense account, Sibley spent $17,000 in Warren county to obtain his nomination, and in the entire district $42,000, which, according to population, averaged $4 a vote. In the warrant under which Sibley was arrested, three other prominent politicians in the Twenty-eighth district are also charged with conspiracy to defraud voters.

The day's developments wind up the political career of Joseph Sibley, who has played a prominent part in national affairs for many years. Mr. Sibley has been known as the weather vane of politics. In his time he has been Republican, Prohibitionist, Silver Democrat, Gold Democrat and finally Republican again. Through all his variations he maintained one close and useful connection—that with the Standard Oil company.

BEATS HIS RECORD MADE AT INDIANAPOLIS

Walter Brookins Thrills Spectators at Asbury Park

Asbury Park, N. J., Aug. 24.—One of the "five famous" fliers, who have been sailing aeroplanes out over the interlaken aviation field during the present meeting made an honest observation yesterday. The airman was looking upward with hand-shaded eyes as Walter Brookins doubled up and down the field like an aerial jack-rabbit.

"There is not another flier living who can turn like that," the rival flier said enthusiastically. "If any of us tried it, and especially with that new model plane, he would be killed. Even Orville Wright can't turn a complete circle in less than 1 1/2 seconds, and Brookins is doing it in almost half that time."

An instant after the aviator spoke "Brooky" did spin a circle in less than half that time. Brookins had been in the air about four minutes when as he reached a point opposite the north end of the grandstand and more than 500 feet above the center of the field with a strong southeast breeze speeding him higher each moment, he suddenly tilted at an angle that caused gasps, and spun completely around in 5 1/2 seconds, according to the stopwatch. As the official sanction of the meet lasted only throughout the final three days of last week, Brookins's record whirl is not official.

Rival sky skippers crowded around Brookins to congratulate him when he descended. He realized, he said, that his last turn before starting on his long glide to the field was a quick one, but he was much surprised when told that it was faster than his record turn at Indianapolis.

Hoke Smith Nominated.

Atlanta, Ga., Aug. 24.—Hoke Smith "came back" and was nominated for the second time for governor of Georgia, defeating Governor Joseph M. Brown, who two years ago defeated Smith after he had dismissed Brown from the railroad commission on the ground that Brown was dominated by the railroad interests.

Hot Weather Affects The Skin.

Tender skins are bound to be affected by the increased amount of poison in the copious perspiration thrown off during hot weather. Rash, hives, blotches, pimples, prickly heat result. Often too, serious skin troubles begin this way.

To wash away the poison entirely, to clean and cool the skin, make an application of a simple solution of wintergreen with thymol, known as D. D. D. Prescription for eczema. It is sold for the purpose in dollar bottles, but we can give you for 25 cents enough D. D. D. to keep your skin fresh and clean from summer blemishes.

If there is any itch this wintergreen lotion will take it away instantly, the very second it is applied to the skin. We assure you of this for we have seen the result with D. D. D. at Lytle's Drug Store.

GETS RETURN OF CAST ON LAKE

A. P. Wagoner Offers $1 For Return of Note Which he Placed in Bottle and Threw on Water.

WHILE ON SUMMER VACATION

Young Woman Found it on Shore at Rosehill, Canada and Let Her Curiosity Get Upper Hand.

A. P. Wagoner is a married man, nevertheless he sent a dollar to Miss Clara Bernhard of Buffalo, N. Y.; today. It all came about in this manner. Mr. and Mrs. A. P. Wagoner and Mr. and Mrs. Bert Simpson took their summer vacation on the lakes, returning home August 4. When they sailed out of Buffalo on a boat and were out of the sight of land, Mr. Wagoner put a short note in a bottle and threw it on the water. The sending of the dollar today is the result of that note.

Mr. Wagoner placed his address in the note and said that anyone who found the bottle and returned the slip of paper to him would receive one dollar by return mail. His plans carried out all right although he expected that the bottle would never be found. Miss Bernhard was spending the summer at Rosehill, Canada, where she found the note.

It may be gleaned from the letter which she wrote that she is spending her summer vacation at the resort there. The bottle was on the water only one day and drifted many miles from the place where it was thrown overboard. The young woman says in her letter that she found it on the sands where it had been washed by the water. She says that she discovered the missive on the third day of August but never sent it back until now as she feared that it was nothing but a practical joke.

Miss Bernhard is not expecting the dollar and it is probable that she will be pleasantly surprised. She admitted her womanly curiosity got the better of her and she finally addressed the letter to this city. She is still under the impression that the note was nothing more than a joke and is not expecting what she will receive at her home in Buffalo.

What Our Neighbors Are Talking About

NEW VARIETY OF GRAFTER.

(Richmond Item.)

The adding machine grafter is the latest to swoop down upon Richmond and gather in the dollars. He has just left via the unknown route, as things were getting too interesting here. Besides, he had "fixed" most of the machines here and needed other fields to work on.

Despite the fact that his appearance was anything but a recommendation few of the owners questioned him. They hauled out the adding machines for him to inspect. After working a while with the machine he would produce a broken part—from his own pocket—and giving it to the owner would tell him that for a few dollars he would replace the part. When the owner ordered him to go ahead he would replace the original part and after collecting his bill go on his way.

REALLY HUNG ON WIRE.

(Columbus Republican.)

The expression, "hang up a purse" in fairs and race meetings is an old one, but it is seldom carried out literally. However, the Bartholomew County Fair Association will actually hang up its purses so the drivers in races may know that they are driving for a tangible prize.

The wife of one of the fair officials has been making neat little sacks in which the money will be placed, and before every race the money to be paid out as prizes for that race will be placed in a sack and hung on the wire. In that manner the fair actually hangs up its purses.

The wedding of Della Gertrude Breece, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Rude Breece, to Horatio Bennett of Rushville was performed, last Sunday evening by the Rev. Paul Truitt at the bride's home in Philadelphia, says the Greenfield Reporter.

Mendelssohn's wedding march was played by the bride's cousin, Metta Johnson of Indianapolis as the bridal party entered with Hazel Hudson as bridesmaid and Carmen L. Thomas of Indianapolis as best man. The bride wore a white lingerie dress, trimmed with Irish lace.

After the ceremony an informal reception was tendered to more than a hundred guests. During the reception a cake of twelve layers was cut and distributed by the bride.

Among the out-of-town guests were Russell Abbott, Dr. and Mrs. Heller, Mr. and Mrs. Jesse Magee of Greenfield; Miss Willa Opal Gordon of Modoc; Miss Pearl Crubaugh of Richmond; Mina McCormick of Anderson; Mr. and Mrs. George Sebastian of Wilkinson; Miss Metta Johnson, Miss Dot Piero, Carmen L. Thomas, Mr. and Mrs. J. T. Johnson, Mr. and Mrs. John Hickey of Indianapolis; Miss Lizzie Gunning of Shelbyville; Ray Tremble of Morris-town; Mr. and Mrs. William Rone and granddaughter of near Irvington.

Mr. and Mrs. Bennett received many useful presents. Later in the evening Mr. and Mrs. Bennett left for their new home in Rushville.

Isaac Miller was very pleasantly surprised at his home by a large circle of friends Monday evening, the occasion being his sixty-first birthday anniversary. He was expecting his wife home from a visit and she came, accompanied by a large number of friends of the family. Mr. Miller received several valuable and useful presents and numerous beautiful birthday cards. Light refreshments were served.
